

MIKE MCKENZIE

Mike McKenzie is a BBC award winning, Singer/Songwriter and Producer based in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Mike has released multiple singles, EP's and, most recently, his debut solo album. Described by The List as "A melting pot of Scottish folk, jangle pop and Americana" I'd Wait Again received immediate support from BBC 6 Music, Radio 4, BBC Scotland and over 120 regional stations throughout the UK.

Extensive touring has seen Mike perform all over the UK including some of Scotland's most iconic venues (The Barrowlands, SWG3, King Tut's, Queen's Hall) as well as joining festival lineups including TRNSMT, Hidden Door, Edinburgh Hogmanay and Edinburgh Pride.

He has opened for Lucy Spraggan, Wet Wet Wet, Horse, Chris Helme (The Seahorse) and Rianne Downie, and performed live on BBC Radio 4's 'Loose Ends' with Clive Anderson and multiple times on BBC Scotland including 'The Quay Sessions with Roddy Hart', 'The Afternoon Show' and 'Grant Stott's Vinyl Revival'.

Outside of his solo work, Mike is a prolific writer and collaborator, previously working with Creative Scotland, LGBT Health & Wellbeing, PJ Moore (The Blue Nile), Black Lilys and Haquin as well as regularly writing with artists and songwriters from around the world.
